A French Miracle, Mr. MacFeeley, of General Sheridan's staff, who has seen considerable service in Northern California and Southern Oregon, among the lava beds and in their vicinity, was called upon Monday by a reporter of the Chicago Inter-Ocean, and gave some information in regard to them and their present inhabitants which has not hitherto been published.

"Major" said our reporter accounts. A miracle, it is claimed, has been wrought in Balignolles, a suburb of Paris. Two sick children in that quarter have recently had visions of the Imraris. Two sick children initiat dunter have recently had visions of the Immaculate Conception, with the result of a perfect cure in each case. In one of the cases the apparition was visible to the little sufferer for six successive days and nights. The figure was a diminutive one, "only about a palm in hight, but animated, making signs to the child to kneel, or to take a chaplet when offered to him. Sometimes it carried the Hely Child: at others it assumed the appearance of the Immaculate Virgin, clad in blue and white, as at Lourdes elsewhere." The vision was seen by "many others, especially children," and a certain M'me Lemercier, "a grave person, fifty-three years old, saw the Blessed Virgin twice." But the crowning proof of the genuineness of these miracles is a certificate signed by the doctor who attended one of the much privileged children. "These facts," says this witness, "were certified by me on the very ness," were certified by me on the very same day, and I affirm on my soul and conscience that they are the result of a
